► “And so on that terrible day, September 10th, 2025, our greatest evangelist for American liberty became immortal. He's a martyr now for American freedom” [...]. “But this is like an old-time revival, isn't it?”

► ” But what was even more important to Charlie than politics and service was the choice he made in the fifth grade, which he called the most important decision of his life to become a Christian. And follower of his Savior, Jesus Christ. Inspired by faith and his love of freedom, Charlie did something remarkable when he was just 18 years old, he devoted his life to converting young people to the conservative cause.

► "He was a missionary with a noble spirit and a great, great purpose. He did not hate his opponents. He wanted the best for them. That's where I disagreed with Charlie. I hate my opponent and I don't want the best for them." [...]

► "Every single American should take a long, hard look at the twisted soul and dark spirit of anyone who would want to kill a young man as good as Charlie, [...] That was a horrible attack on the United States of America. It was an assault on our most sacred liberties and God given rights."

▶ “Charlie ultimately became convinced that we needed not just a political realignment, but also a spiritual reawakening. We did. And we have to bring back religion to America, because without borders, law and order and religion, you really don't have a country anymore.

▶ We want religion brought back to America. We want to bring God back into our beautiful USA like never before. We want God back. Charlie would have been so pleased to hear his friends and colleagues today giving testimony and giving glory to God.” [Source: Fox News, verbatim]

Ben & Jerry's co-founder quits over social activism row [source: BBC]

“Ben & Jerry's co-founder Jerry Greenfield has left the ice cream maker after almost half a century at the firm, deepening a dispute with parent company Unilever.

His exit marks the latest episode in a row that started in 2021 when Ben & Jerry's said it would stop selling its ice cream in Israeli settlements in the occupied West Bank and East Jerusalem.”

“Ben & Jerry's has long been known for taking a public stance on social and political issues since it was founded in 1978, often backing campaigns on issues like LGBTQ+ rights and climate change.

[There was] an agreement that protected the brand's social mission when it merged with the consumer goods giant Unilever 25 years ago. But in recent years, Unilever may have attempted to rein in the company's activism, particularly with regard to Israel and Gaza.”

Dame Sarah Mullally has been named the new Archbishop of Canterbury-designate becoming the first woman ever appointed to the role.

Women were first ordained as priests in the Church of England in 1994, with the first female bishops appointed in 2014. In line with tradition, the process of appointing a new archbishop involves the recommendation being sent to the Prime Minister currently Sir Keir Starmer and then passed to the monarch for approval.

A former NHS chief nurse, the 63-year-old was ordained in 2006 and made history in 2018 when she became the first female Bishop of London the third most senior position in the Church of England.

The Church has been without an Archbishop of Canterbury for nearly a year, following Justin Welby's resignation over a major safeguarding scandal. He stepped down after a damning report revealed that he "could and should" have reported prolific abuser John Smyth to the police in 2013. Smyth was found to have abused numerous boys and young men with ties to the Church.

Speaking from Canterbury Cathedral on Friday, Dame Sarah said, "In an age that craves certainty and tribalism, Anglicanism offers something quieter but stronger."

I Love Muhammad sparks a battle of loves, Ram, Mahadev and rasgulla too

The "I love Muhammad" protests, which started over a banner, have turned into a digital tussle of devotion. People from the Hindu community have taken to social media to say 'I love Ram' and 'I love Mahadev'.

The 'I Love Muhammad' slogan, first contested during a Barawafat procession in Kanpur, has triggered protests and processions by Muslims across several states. Clashes with police, FIRs, and social media debates have intensified the controversy, drawing attention from political leaders and religious organisations.

[TRUMP:] Nice place. Very nice place. Mr. President, Mr. Prime Minister, Mr. Speaker, esteemed members of the Knesset and cherished citizens of Israel, we gather on a day of profound joy, of soaring hope, of renewed faith, and above all a day to give our deepest thanks to the Almighty God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

After two harrowing years in darkness and captivity, 20 courageous hostages are returning to the glorious embrace of their families, and it is glorious. 28 more precious loved ones are coming home at last to rest in this sacred soil for all of time. And after so many years of unceasing war and endless danger, today the skies are calm, the guns are silent, the sirens are still, and the sun rises on a holy land that is finally at peace, a land and a region that will live, God willing, in peace for all eternity.

This is not only the end of a war, this is the end of a age of terror and death, and the beginning of the age of faith and hope and of God. It's the start of a grand concord and lasting harmony for Israel and all the nations of what will soon be a truly magnificent region. I believe that so strongly. This is the historic dawn of a new Middle East.

Their research explains how technology gives rise to new products and production methods which replace old ones, resulting in a better standard of living, health and quality of life.

Creative destruction (German: schöpferische Zerstörung) is a concept in economics that describes a process in which innovative entry by entrepreneurs is the disruptive force that sustains economic growth, even as it destroys the value of established companies and laborers.

The concept is usually identified with the economist Joseph Schumpeter (1883-1950), who derived it from the work of Karl Marx and popularized it.

STOCKHOLM, Oct 13 (Reuters) - Joel Mokyr, Philippe Aghion and Peter Howitt won the 2025 Nobel economics prize on Monday for their work on how innovation and the forces of "creative destruction" can drive economic growth and lift living standards across the globe.

Their research explains how technology gives rise to new products and production methods which replace old ones, resulting in a better standard of living, health and quality of life.

"This process of Creative Destruction is the essential fact about capitalism. It is what capitalism consists in and what every capitalist concern has got to live in [...] The problem that is usually being visualized is how capitalism administers existing structures, whereas the relevant problem is how it creates and destroys them."

[Source: Capitalism, Socialism and Democracy (1942)]

[the recipients voiced concerns about Trump policies:] "The current Trump administration's assault on higher education and scientific research may be the biggest own-goal in history", Joel Mokyr told Reuters. "It is self-destructive and is completely driven by irrelevant politics."

Aghion said de-globalization and tariff barriers were "obstacles to growth" adding that the bigger the market the more possibilities to exchange ideas, transfer technologies and for healthy competition. "Anything that gets in the way of openness is an obstacle to growth. So I see there kind of dark clouds currently accumulating, pushing for barriers to trade and openness," he said.

Aghion called on Europe to learn from the U.S. and China, which he said have found ways to reconcile competition and industrial policy. "In Europe, in the name of competition policy, we became very anti any form of industrial policy. I think we need to evolve on that and find ways to reconcile industrial policy in areas like defense, climate, AI, biotech," he said. [Source: Reuters]

The Tech Right Gets Its Own Phyllis Schlafly

(Meet Katherine Boyle)

[Source: The New York Times]

For most of her career, Katherine Boyle, an influential venture capitalist—religious, Republican and not unlike a 21st-century Phyllis Schlafly — was an outlier in the tech world. But today, as Silicon Valley undergoes a generational shift to the right, many of her once-contrarian views are making their way into the mainstream. Thanks in part to her longstanding friendship with Vice President JD Vance, she has also become one of the tech world's most reliable conduits to the Trump administration.

[Source: The New York Times]

Since 2022, Ms. Boyle's creation of "American Dynamism" (a $600m investment fund linked to Andreessen Horowitz) has snowballed into a new language of "patriotic investing," a crop of copycat funds across the industry and a rising class of politically conservative hard-tech founders who talk a lot about what America represents, [like] Peter Thiel, the Silicon Valley billionaire and right-wing power broker.

Some critics, however, are concerned that she is distorting the current state of affairs to her own benefit. "'American Dynamism' cloaks itself as a moral crusade, but it's an idolatry of wealth, nationalism and weaponry," said Gil Duran, a journalist and the author of a forthcoming book, "The Nerd Reich: Silicon Valley Fascism and the War on Democracy." He compared Ms. Boyle's movement to "a Silicon Valley pitch-deck version of Christian nationalism."

Ms. Boyle believes the low U.S. birthrate is a symptom of a “spiritual crisis” in America, though she rejects the idea that economic causes are to blame and instead attributes it to “a decades-long attack on the family.”

Her “spiritual crisis” diagnosis explains many of the problems she sees in our country: Our young boys are overmedicated. Millennials are stuck in a prolonged adolescence. Irony has helped kill American innovation. For many of these problems, she blames the leftist, liberal ideologies that she claims dominated the last decade. She believes most would be helped by a return to the nation’s Western, Judeo-Christian roots.

It's an open secret that countries spy on each other. That's probably why world leaders almost never talk about espionage in public. But over the weekend, it was the punchline of a joke between Xi Jinping and President Lee Jae Myung of South Korea.

The joke revolved around two cellphones Mr. Xi gave Mr. Lee. [...] The phones were manufactured by the Chinese company Xiaomi, with Korean-made parts. Mr Lee picked up one of the phones and asked how good the security was. Mr. Xi laughed: 'You can check if there's a backdoor'. [...] That prompted Mr. Lee to laugh and clap his hands in apparent delight.

The United States, Australia and Britain have all banned Huawei from their 5G mobile communication networks. They argue that the company is inseparable from China's ruling communist party. Xiaomi, however, successfully sued the US government to be removed from the blacklist, arguing that it did not have any links to the Chinese military. [Source: NY Times]
